A Message from the President of Board of Trustees

THE LOWELL who said "We learn nothing by precept and very little by example" meant to emphasize that we learn by "doing". We celebrate this year the Fiftieth Anniversary of the founding of the Detroit University School, which has operated since 1942 with the Grosse Pointe Country Day School. These, our Schools, have learned by "doing", the way to produce the well balanced graduate. Precept and example have their well deserved place in the attack which our Faculty makes upon our problems, but the solution of these problems is made easier because of the wealth of that fifty years of experience behind our Schools' effort. The places which members of previous classes have made for themselves in college, in professional, in industrial, in commercial, and in civic life evidence the "doing" of which our Schools are capable. And, if further proof were needed, look in the following pages at the happy promise for the future of our country and our children which lies in the confident hands of the Class of '49.

—EDWARD P. WRIGHT

We appreciate your faith in an educational ideal and the fact that you have constantly kept the welfare of the two schools uppermost in your minds.

To you, the members of the Board, we profess an earnest hope that our ideals and accomplishments in the coming years will justify the trust you have always had in us.

D.U.S.'s Fifty Years

IN THE SPRING OF 1899 Mr. Henry Gray Sherrard and Mr. Frederick Leroy Bliss, who were respectively head of the Classical Dept. and Principal of the Detroit Central High School, decided to organize a boys' private school. They felt the need since the Detroit public schools were involved in a local political squabble which kept them from being able to maintain educational standards which met eastern college requirements. After receiving encouragement and assistance from numerous civic leaders, these men finally located the old building of the Michigan Athletic Association on Elmwood Avenue between Congress and Larned Streets. This building, offering adequate educational and athletic facilities, was purchased and repaired.

By Fall sufficient funds had been raised through the sale of stock at fifty dollars a share so that the school was opened on September 25, 1899, with Mr. Bliss as Principal and Mr. Sherrard as Associate Principal. All grades were covered from primary through college preparation. The school offered a good general course for the non-college student as well as courses for the college preparatory student. In both cases the school stressed more than just the scholastic training by including an Art Department and Manual Training Department, and by requiring Physical Training as well.

The first two pupils to be enrolled in the school were C. Henry Haberkorn, Jr., and Joseph Berry Sherrard. The faculty consisted of eighteen members. In the first year there were 155 students enrolled in the school. Many of these students had been attracted to the new school from Detroit Central High School because of their admiration of both Mr. Bliss and Mr. Sherrard. Also a number had been students of the Detroit School for Boys, a school incorporated in 1890 and purchased by D. U. S. in 1901. The boarding school students were primarily from smaller Michigan communities whose local schools offered inadequate college preparation. This gave the new school a large number of pupils of all grades and ages. The first graduating class, the class of 1900, had thirteen members.

By 1914, in an effort to maintain the high standards which the school had set for itself and because of its expansions, the school found itself in a poor financial position. Mr. Bliss, who had proved himself as an able educator, felt unable to cope with this situation and decided to resign to assume the principalship of the Jackson High school. The direction of the school was taken over by Mr. Frederick Searle, who was assissted by Mrs. Florence Milner and Mr. William H. Fries.

Financial conditions did not improve, and in February, 1916, the new gymnasium and dining room burned in a fire which also damaged the home Department and the school buildings. This proved to be the final blow to the school. The Board of Trustees decided to dissolve the corporation and discontinue the school.

However, Mrs. Charlotte B. Sherrard was so interested in the continuation of the school that she invited Mr. Daniel H. Fletcher, Senior Master of Loomis School, Winsor, Connecticut, to become Headmaster. Thus at a time when the plant was still in ruins and the financial position forced reorganization, Mrs. Sherrard and Mr. Charles B. Warren guaranteed the expense of the school for one year.

In 1918 the Elmwood buildings were sold to the Detroit Park Commission. The school was able to obtain the property of the Park View Athletic Club on Parkview Avenue. Mrs. Sherrard purchased this building and a playing field adjacent to the building. Later she made available the frame house next door, which was called "Sherrard Hall" in honor of her husband, one of the two founders of the school. Although Mrs. Sherrard purchased the two buildings and the playing field, she made them all available to the school rent free. But for this the school never would have survived those trying years. For the next ten years the school grew until it had reached the capacity of the two buildings.

When the school moved down to Parkview, the authorities adopted the program and organization of a Country Day School. That movement was a relatively new one which aimed to incorporate the all day program of the boarding school with the advantage of allowing the boys to be in their own homes. The program was calculated to take care of the city boy all day long in the country.

The school made little change in its academic set-up, but it did tend to become more of a purely college training school. However, the emphasis in athletics did change. Although the school continued to have intramural and interscholastic teams, the aim was to get all boys interested in some activity, recognizing that one cannot be efficient if he does not have a well-trained body in which a well-trained mind may function.

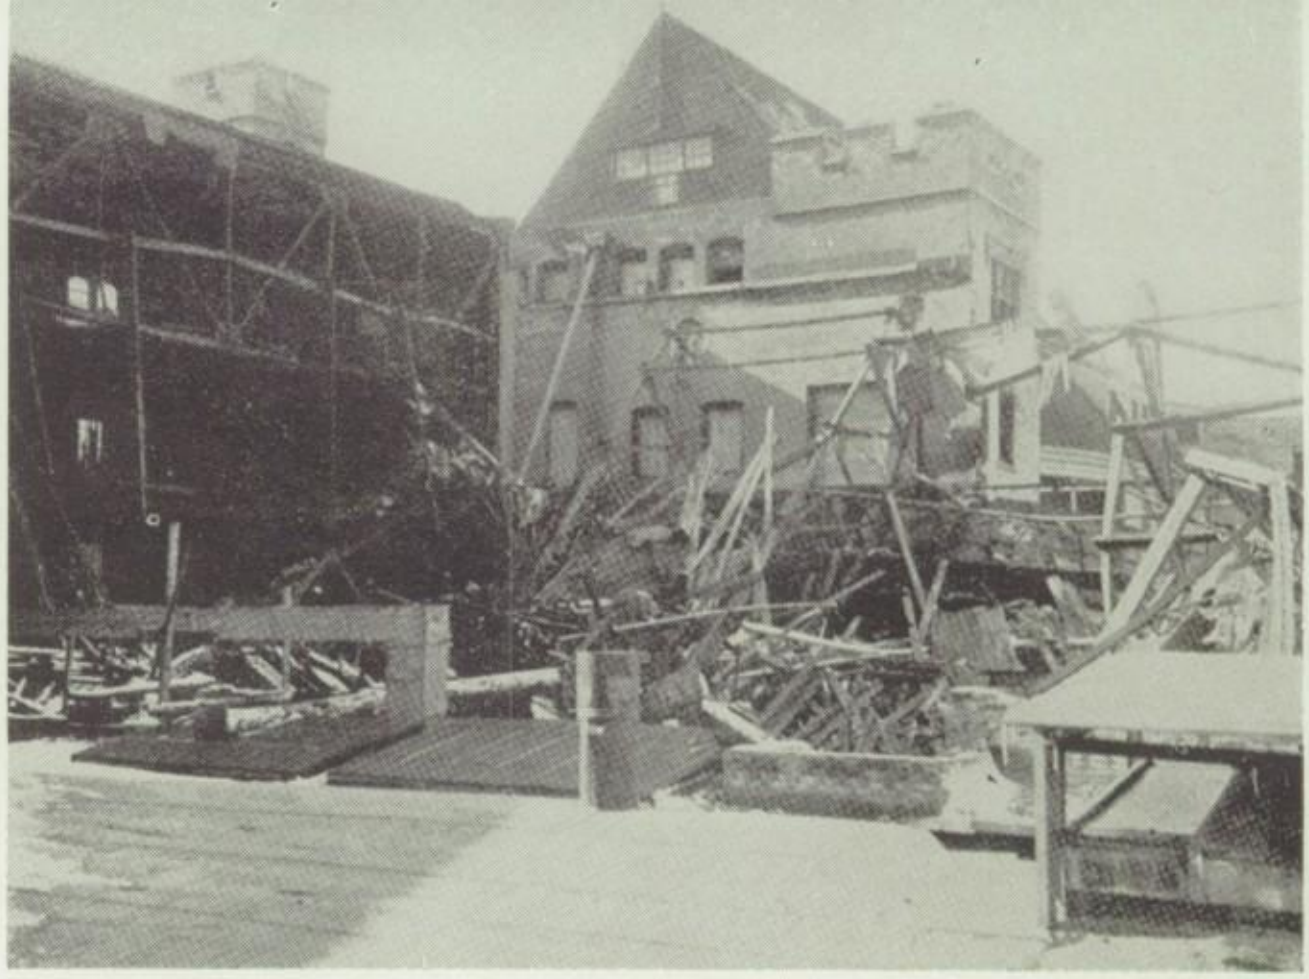
The school was reorganized as a Trustee Institution in 1920, thus putting it on a non-profit basis. Mr. Charles B. Warren was made the first President of the Board of Trustees of the reorganized D.U.S. and continued to serve as President until his death. Its affairs have since been managed by a distinguished group of citizens.

By 1926, the effects of the World War and the ensuing depression over, it was evident that the school must have room for growth in more adequate surroundings. By this time several of the "old boys," now fathers, had joined the Board of Trustees. Among them were Mr. Edsel B. Ford, Mr. Edgar Bowen, and Mr. C. Henry Haberkorn, Jr. Mr. Roscoe B. Jackson, Mr. Ford Ballantyne, and Mr. Allan Shelden were also added to the Board at this time.

At a meeting of the Board, held March 21, 1927, it was voted that Mr. Ford, Mr. Haberkorn, and Mr. Shelden be appointed a Committee to consider the possible site for a new school and to propose to the Board a method for raising the money to pay for it. It was decided to purchase an eighteen acre site on Cook Road in Grosse Pointe Woods for the new home of the school. Through the generosity of the Alumni and friends the Committee was to raise about a half million dollars for the new school which was to be ready for use in the school year of 1928-1929.



The Committee raised three hundred thousand dollars within six months which enabled them to purchase the land and to start the building. They had hoped to raise an additional one hundred and fifty thousand dollars to complete the payments on the land and the present building and to plant and beautify the lands. The Board desired to raise a total of seven hundred thousand dollars of which the remaining two hundred and fifty thousand was to serve as a protection to the investment.

Mr. Edsel B. Ford paid up the balance of the land contract of $125,000 which was owing on the property. This was in addition to his original gift of $125,000 to this fund. The maintenance fund was never achieved.

Thus in the fall of 1929 the school opened its new, modern quarters. It was to continue as a Country Day School for 200 boys. Every effort was made to maintain its reputation as a "Prep" school. The educational policies which can be traced back to its very beginnings were still to be pursued in these new and much more adequate surroundings.

In 1939 Mr. Fletcher, after twenty-three years of service, retired as Headmaster of D.U.S. He was succeeded by Clifton Orville Page, who had been Headmaster of the Park School, Indianapolis, Indiana. In 1941 Mr. Fries retired with thirty-six years of continuous service at D.U.S. The next year Mr. Page resigned as Headmaster.

The Board of Trustees was looking for a new Headmaster. In 1939 the Board of the Grosse Pointe Country Day School, a co-educational school which had been organized in 1915 by a group of civic leaders in Grosse Pointe had approached the Board of D.U.S. with a merger proposition, but at that time D.U.S. turned it down. Therefore, in 1941, Edsel Ford, as President of D.U.S. Board, went to Dr. Mateer, President of Grosse Pointe Country Day School Board with the suggestion that the schools merge. After much discussion it was decided to merge the two schools for greater efficiency under a single administrative and financial management. It was decided that each school would retain its own name and identity under the merger. A new corporation was formed under the laws of the State of Michigan to be operated not for profit by a self-perpetuating board of trustees. The administrative corporation which owns the school properties is known as the Detroit University School and Grosse Pointe Country Day School Corporation. Boards of Trustees of both institutions became unified by the merger.

The direction of both schools was placed in the hands of Mr. Lambert F. Whetstone, who had been Headmaster of Grosse Pointe Country Day School from 1936 to 1942. Detroit University School was to continue as a "prep" school for boys from fourth grade through high school. Grosse Pointe Country Day School ceased to be co-educational and became the girls' school from fourth through twelfth grades. The Kindergarten and first three grades included both boys and girls and are located at the Country Day School. The Nursery School was situated in a ranch-type building across Cook Road from D.U.S.

This was the set-up as created by the merger and still exists with the exception that the Nursery School is now located on the Country Day School Campus, the new and more adequate quarters donated by Mr. George R. Fink in 1946.

On Friday, April 11, 1947, D.U.S. experienced her second fire. Although the third floor was practically demolished by the fire and the rest of the building was drenched with water, damages were sufficiently cleared so that school was resumed on the following Tuesday. However, all repairs were not completed, nor was the addition of an enlarged and improved third floor finished until late in 1947.

This past Spring and Summer has wrought more changes. On May 6, 1948, Mr. Whetstone resigned as Headmaster of these schools. His post has been capably filled by Mr. G. M. Garrett, Assistant to the Headmaster at D.U.S., and by Miss Blanche Richardson, Assistant to the Headmaster at G.P.C.D.S., as the acting administrators in the two schools. During the summer an addition to the Country Day School was made. This has made it possible for these schools to educate a larger number of youngsters and to be of even greater service to the community.

In May, 1947, the Board of Trustees undertook a Development Program which is designed, when completed in five years, to provide greater security for the staff, more scholarships, and increased space for the schools. When the financial goal has been reached, a new building for the high school girls will be constructed on Cook Road opposite the D.U.S. campus. This will allow for a more effective and efficient utilization of the facilities and the faculties of these schools.

This combination of schools seems to be a happy one. Not only does it prove more economical and efficient, but also it makes possible the combination of the best features of co-educational with segregated training. Although the schools are now housed in buildings over four miles apart and although classes and many activities occur in each school separately for boys and girls, it is possible for the two schools to combine in many of their school functions. When the new building has been completed, this will be done even more effectively.

No history of a school is complete without some comment upon the degree to which the institution has fulfilled its major purpose—the education of the youth of a community for worthy service in that community. Herein D.U.S. is justly proud. No matter the physical handicaps nor the financial distresses the school has had to operate under in its years, the aims of the founders have always been foremost in the minds of those who carried on its destinies.

First Students Join in Congratulating

March 2, 1949

Dear Frank,

You have advised me that the Editor-in-Chief of the "Pericon" has asked that I, as "the first enrolled student in D.U.S." write a letter congratulating the School upon the attainment of its Golden Anniversary. This "first student enrolled in D.U.S." is one of those legends that come down from the murky past of fifty years ago and one which I have from time to time protested, on the grounds that, while I was enrolled at the conception of the school, certainly my fraternity brother, Joe Sherrard; should have that honor, if being alive so long can be considered an honor.

It was Mr. Henry Gray Sherrard, perhaps the greatest teacher of the classical languages of his day (of whom a delightful picture appears in Pickin's book, "On My Own"), who was in every sense the father of D.U.S., and I am sure his own boy Joe was enrolled in his mind if not on paper before I was even thought of.

However, I well remember the evening in the summer of 1899 when Mr. Sherrard, who, in those days before there was a paved road to Grosse Pointe and before automobiles existed, with his family and Mrs. Sherrard's family were the only year-round residents of Grosse Pointe, strolled down to our summer cottage and told my father that he had at last gotten the necessary pieces together to form the boys' preparatory school which he had long planned. Then he turned to me and said, with that friendly twinkle in his eye that was so characteristic of him: "and, Harry, I have a fine old gentleman associated with me whom you will like very much." That was my first word of Mr. Frederick LeRoy Bliss who became the first headmaster of the school and had agreed to resign his position as Principal of the Central High School to undertake with Mr. Sherrard the organization of D.U.S. And it is a commentary upon youth and Mr. Sherrard's understanding of youth that when some months later I first met Mr. Bliss, then, I believe, in his forties, Mr. Sherrard's description of him as a "fine old gentleman" did not seem in any way amiss.

The foregoing is my earliest recollection of D.U.S. and one which few alumni now living can remember.

After a lapse of half a century I take great pride in having been one of the first D.U.S. boys, a member of the Board of Trustees for the past 25 years, that my father was a member of the original corporation, in the fact that my two sons are alumni of the school, that my four daughters attended its affiliate, the Grosse Pointe Country Day School, and that two of my grandchildren are now enrolled in that school.

To the Headmasters, Frederick LeRoy Bliss, Frederick E. Searle, Howard F. Fletcher, Clifton O. Page and Lambert F. Whetstone, to their associates William H. Fries and Gaither M. Garrett, and to the many able teachers who have served under them, but, above all, to Henry Gray Sherrard who conceived the idea and was responsible for the excellence of the school's beginning, all alumni of the school and the City of Detroit are deeply indebted for what they did. I congratulate those who are now carrying on upon this passing of the half-century mark of the school and wish them all success through the years to come.

Very sincerely yours,

Congratulatory letter from William H. Fries to D. U. S. on the occasion of its 50th Year Anniversary.

Fifty years in the life of a man or of an institution is no small measure of time.

For thirty-six of this fifty year span of Detroit University School, I lived with the school and its interests were mine. Now that I am outside and can view it with a certain objectivity, impossible when working at the immediate school problems, I realize the truth of the saying that any institution is as good as the product it turns out.

Our School on Its Fiftieth Anniversary

For fifty years the aim of Detroit University School has been the training of men for leadership—and the school may well be proud of its product. I have seen our boys in college showing the same qualities of leadership which they showed earlier in the "Old School" and I have seen them go through the peril and testing of two great wars with outstanding records of ability, initiative and courage. The roster of D.U.S. boys in positions of trust and authority today can hardly be surpassed by any school.

For me the friendship and loyalties of the "Old Boys" are the happiest by-product of my teaching years.

Signed,
William H. Fries

Mr. Fries:

Associate Principal	1914-1916
Assistant Headmaster	1916-1941
Head of the French Dept.	1914-1941

To: Detroit University School

This message brings hearty congratulations and many good wishes to D.U.S. on reaching its fiftieth year; and to me many happy memories running back over these years.

Time flies so fast that it seems hardly possible a half century has elapsed since Mr. Bliss, the School's first Headmaster, my husband and I, on a certain Sunday afternoon, looked over property on Elmwood Avenue with a view to its fitness for establishing a private school for boys.

The School came into being soon afterwards, and was launched with the motto—Honor et Veritas—as its watchword.

Very many changes have occurred since then, and doubtless many more, from time to time, will come in the future. Whatever happens, I can give no better wish to Detroit University School than that, in the words of the motto, Honor and Truth will prevail throughout a long and useful career in the community it serves.

Very sincerely,
Charlotte B. Sherrard

My Dear Howard,

I am glad to salute the D.U.S. on its Fiftieth Anniversary. Nothing can give more pleasure to anyone who has worked with and for the School than its continued success. When Mr. Bliss and Mr. Sherrard joined to found the School in 1899, the quiet Detroit of that year differed greatly from your present Metropolitan City. But the need for high scholarship which they sought to meet is a necessity today as never before. Mechanical devices have reduced the need for long hours of labor but the demand for comprehensive knowledge with which to understand and control our mechanical civilization has grown steadily greater. There was never a more immediate need for men who can see life whole and see it clearly. The problems of the intellectual life grow larger in direct proportion to the lesser hours required to produce goods.

When I consider the men and women who have given generously of their time and money to promote the welfare of this School; when I think of the boys who have grown up under the wholesome influence of the School; when I think of the fathers and mothers who have sacrificed to keep their boys under the care of the School; when I think of the patient work of the teachers who have often worked long hours at low salaries in order that the School could continue through hard times,—I am deeply grateful.

I feel sure that the loyalties built up during these first years of struggle will strengthen the resolve of all the Trustees, Alumni, Parents, Teachers, and Students to continue to work that the D.U.S. shall grow in power.

Mrs. Fletcher and I are enjoying our leisure in this friendly city and we find that there are some real advantages in having passed the biblical limit of three score years and ten. And one of the best of these advantages is the memory of all the good people—both living and dead—who have worked with us as Trustees, teachers, and parents. We are always glad when any of our former friends write us a note or stop to call upon us.

Our best greetings to you—All,
D. H. Fletcher

Standing—R. Langs, H. Kay, J. Wood. Seated—J. Lutomski, J. Duncan, W. Babcock, R. Kuhn, E. Davis, T. Sedwick, H. Earle.

The purpose of the Student Council is to set a tone of smoothness in the school, impressing upon the students that there is an element of leadership and self-government to be acquired which will greatly benefit them in later life. Moreover, the Student Council serves as a link between the administration and the student body; by means of student assemblies, held every five weeks, the Council tries to obtain from the administration the sensible wishes of the students.

At D.U.S. the Student Council is made up of ten members: one from the combined seventh and eighth grades, one from the ninth, two apiece from the Sophomores and Juniors, and four from the Senior class.

As for the executive group, Dick Kuhn is President; Warren Babcock is Vice-President; and Gus Davis is Secretary. These officers see that the Council functions harmoniously and efficiently, according to the Council's constitution.

The Student Council will always strive to allow the students as many privileges as possible, for it believes in the saying: "The least governed people are the best governed people."

The Student Council at Country Day is composed of two representatives from each class of grades nine through twelve, and one representative from each of the seventh and eighth grades. This group acts as the legislative body of the school with the students themselves having a real part in the running of the government. In its weekly meetings the council makes laws, and, if necessary, assigns punishments. In order that the rest of the students may have a fair chance to express their opinions and ideas, open Student Council meetings are held for the entire upper school. However, the Student Council does not exist for law and order alone; one of its chief functions is to encourage friendliness and unity throughout the school.

and Progress

. . . of the

as we approach graduation, we are aware that it is the commencement of a new phase of our lives . . . our growth of the last twelve years has been physical, intellectual, and emotional . . . here we summarize our activities and accomplishments of the last few years . . . we hope to show what these schools have done to aid and guide our GROWTH and PROGRESS.

SENIORS

Senior Class

PRESIDENTS

Sara Virginia Foy

Sally has been at Country Day for only two years, yet she makes us wonder how we got along without her before. She was Vice-President of the Junior class, and we found her such a good one that she was unanimously elected our President this year when she has cheerfully tackled and overcome the class' numerous problems with bewildering efficiency. A member of the Proscenium Society, Sally also benefited Varieties for two years both as an actress and a board member. Under her organization the cheering squad materialized. Last year she served as Business Editor of PEN POINTE and convenor of special articles for TRI-STAR, and wrote the theme for May Day. Her wholehearted enthusiasm for anything she undertakes and her frequent ready smile will be sadly missed in the years to come.

John Howard Kay

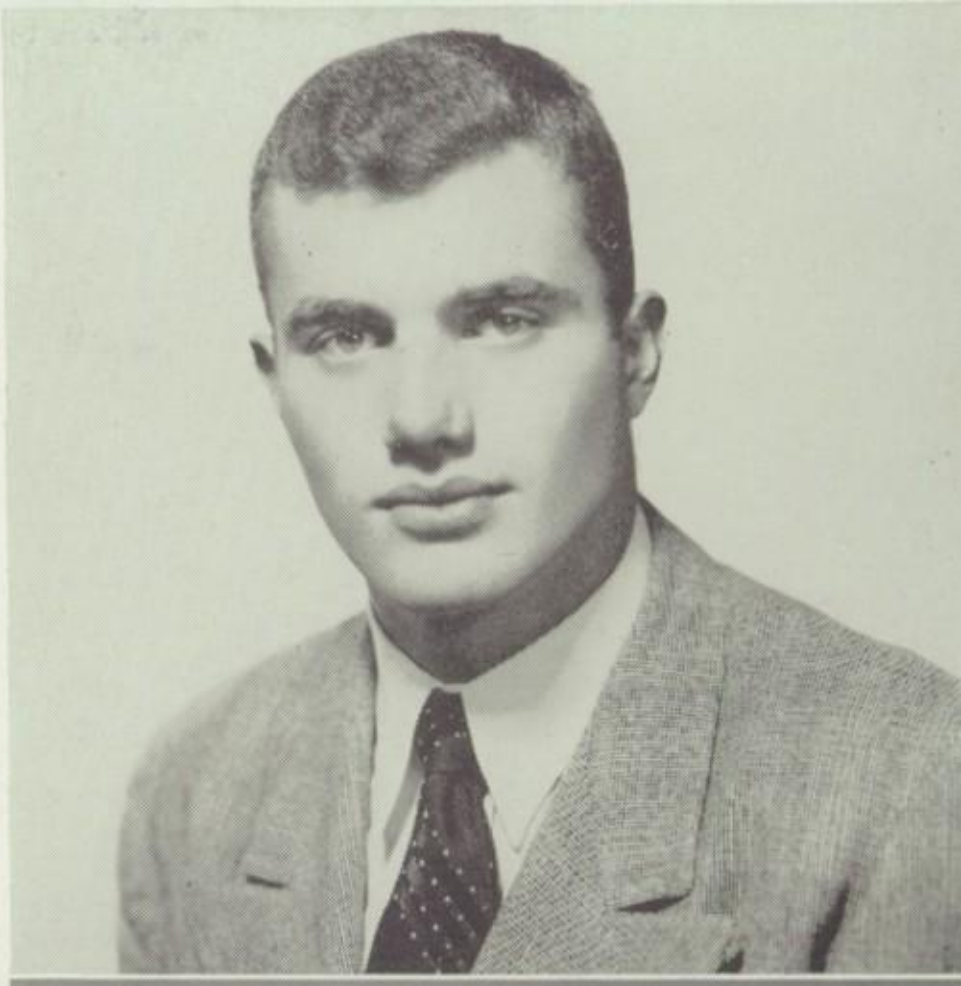
Howard is a charter member of our class, attending D.U.S. since the first grade. He has participated actively in many school functions and was a very necessary unit of our class. He has served as a member of the Student Council for two years. He has been active in Varieties for four years and has managed four D.U.S. teams. In the scholastic line, Howie has won two Terrill Newnan awards and has often appeared on the Honor Roll. We know that D.U.S.'s loss will be Williams' gain as Howie moves into greater things.

CLASS OFFICERS

Vice-President	Secretary	Treasurer
Monica Maria Sterba	Monica Maria Sterba	Jean Elizabeth Stever
Peter Hack Giblin	Thomas Arthur Brandt	Harlan William Dittmer

Warren Wood Babcock, Jr.

Warren joined our class in the seventh grade and at once made friends with everyone. He has been active in athletic, academic, and extra-curricular activities. On the athletic field has won three letters in football and two in both tennis and basketball. His great ability has shown him to be a worthy President of the U Club. "Bab" has been a member of the Student Council for two years and was elected Vice-President of that body this year. He has always had an active interest in medicine and plans to be a doctor.

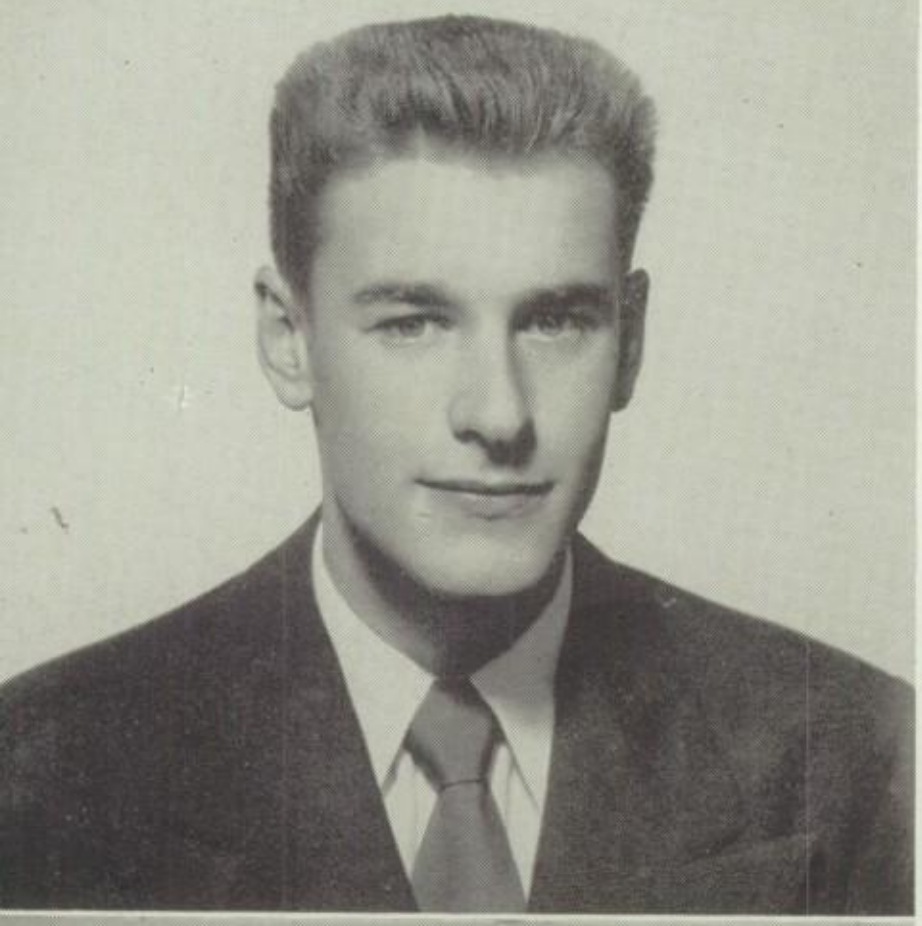


Margaret Alice Barnard

From her arrival in the eighth grade Margie has been one of the class' steadying influences. She is always ready to do a little bit more than her share of work at hand, and this year capably supervised the Library and Hobby Show as their committee chairman. Her literary talents were well proved by her work as Assistant Editor of PEN POINTE and TRI-STAR's column-convenor. Added to her many accomplishments Margie is outstanding in both photography and horse-back riding. We know that her perfect understanding and unusual sense of humor are sure to make her appreciated by everyone wherever she goes.

Howard Bradbury Bingham

Jack, in his position as Editor-in-Chief of the PERICON, has made the greatest contribution toward making this book possible. We are all very much indebted to him for his great service. The PERICON is not his only achievement however, for he has always shown ability in the academic field and in athletics. He was awarded two Varsity letters for his solid filling of a guard position in football. Jack has shown much ability in dramatics and is a member of the Proscenium Society. We know that Jack's abilities will carry him far along the road to success.



Thomas Arthur Brandt

When Tom leaves, the athletic endeavors will suffer a great loss. He has held down the shortstop position on the baseball team with great ability since the tenth grade. He has also been an important part of the basketball and football teams, winning letters in both these sports. His sense of humor has helped to keep up the morale of the Senior class. Tom's other activities include the Service Club, Glee Club, U Club and the Library Committee. This fall he was elected Secretary of the Senior class. Tom enters into all school activities readily and can always be relied upon to do a good job.

Carolyn Bethune Brossy

Aside from her horticultural interests, Cane has contributed her endless string of abilities to Country Day since the ninth grade. She was the eleventh grade representative to the Student Council and in her Senior year was convenor of feature articles for TRI-STAR, with four years as reporter to her credit. Her unique literary ability was revealed when she was elected PEN POINTE representative for the tenth grade and Editor-in-Chief in her junior year, which position led to her appointment as Literary Editor of PERICON. Carolyn has enthusiastically participated in Varieties for four years and in the Glee Club during the ninth and tenth grades; after two years in the Dramatic Club she was elected President in her junior year. Her exceptional wit, versatility, and friendliness have certainly endeared Carolyn to us all.

Troy Harold Browning, Jr.

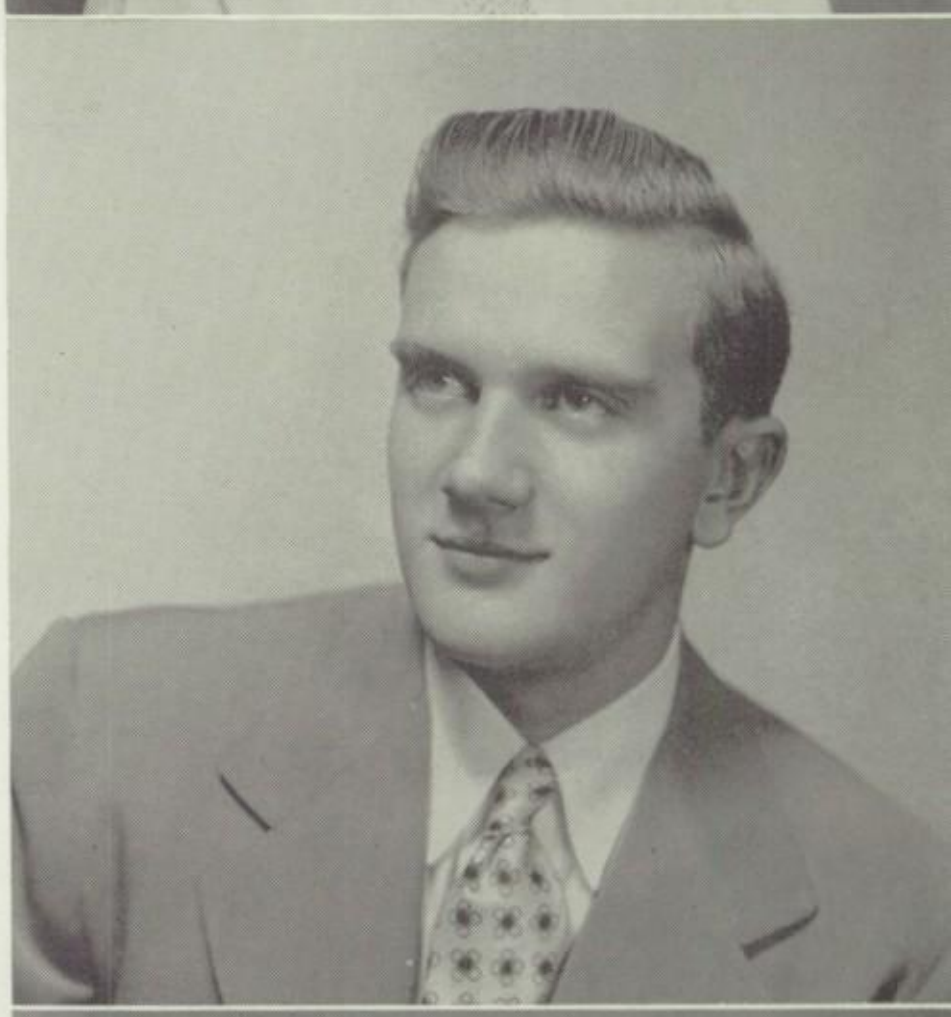
As soon as Troy came to us last year from Detroit Country Day School, his active interest and obvious capabilities made him an important cog in our extra-curricular program. This year he has been outstanding as a member of the Varieties committee. As an "idea man" he has been indispensable. As a boxer, he has given us several good exhibitions, winning every bout he has entered. On the football field this fall, Troy formed an important part of the backfield. We're all very sure that the "Speaker of the Senior Study Hall" will be greatly missed in the future.

Rae Elisabeth Garber

Not only does Rae shine scholastically, as she is a regular honor-roll student, but she is also proficient in almost every other field. This year she was Editor-in-Chief of PERICON and Student Advisor on the TRI-STAR staff. She has been on the PEN POINTE Board in eleventh grade, the Student Council in tenth grade, and on varsity where she proved her outstanding athletic ability. Rae's dramatic talents have long been obvious, for she has been in the Dramatic Club and Varieties for four years, and is now a full-fledged member of the Proscenium Society. She is lucky enough to make friends easily and keep them: a quality which is always sure to make her a welcome addition to any group.

Harlan William Dittmer

Although Dit is one of the least talkative boys in the class, we have found that when he does say something it is worth listening to. His constructive criticisms have made him a key man when it comes to organizing entertainment. The ease with which he accepts responsibility has made him an able Senior Class Treasurer. Outside of school Dit's chief interest is music. His great ability in this field is well evidenced by the superb job he does in morning assemblies. Harlan is sure to be a success in life with his silent way of doing things.



Jane Kuhlman

Since the seventh grade Janie's smile has been a well-known one; it has brought her not only many good friends, but also the coveted positions of May Queen in her Senior year and attendant two years before. A representative in the ninth grade, she now heads the whole school as its Student Council Co-President, and has carried out that job with characteristic efficiency. As long as any of us can remember, Jane has been on both hockey and basketball varsities, so that this year she achieved distinction by becoming a member of the Athletic Honor Society. When she is gone, Country Day will have a hard time finding someone to fill the place which her cheer and friendliness left empty.

Philip Martin Droll

Here's a man whose name really fits his personality. He is renowned as one of the class wits. Phil's contributions to the school have been manifold. He has been particularly outstanding in the field of athletics, winning letters in football and basketball. He has taken an active part in Varieties for several years. Phil has been of great value to the Service Club, TRIANGLE, and Glee Club. Phil will long be remembered by those who know him, for his quick smile has made him one of the most popular boys in his class.

Carla Louise Lipski

In the two years she has been with us Carla has been most active in various school activities. In her Junior year she showed us her executive abilities as Stage Manager for the Varieties of 1948, and she further used these talents in her Senior year as Producer-Director of the show. In the field of sports she has proved herself one of the most limber members of the cheerleading squad. Aside from her duties as Lower School reporter in the eleventh grade and Advertising Editor of PERICON this year, Carla managed to squeeze in time for her various other interests which include music, art, and creative writing. When Carla leaves, Country Day will lose one of its most versatile and cheerful students.

John Duncan

Jack first came to D.U.S. in 1946 and he has made his presence felt ever since, by his many achievements, both scholastically and otherwise. In his Junior year he was elected President of the Grosse Pointe Chapter of the Cum Laude Society. As Art Editor of the PERICON, Jack drew the cartoons found on the introductory pages. He was awarded the Haberkorn Book in his Sophomore year. He was also a Terrill Newnan Scholar in 1947 and 1948. For scholastic achievements he was awarded the Edsel Ford Scholarship in 1947 and the William Gaston Mateer Scholarship in 1948. Jack has also been active in athletics. He received a Varsity letter in football this year and he has also taken part in basketball and track.

Virginia Yerger Robb

Virginia has been at Country Day from the first grade upwards, and in that time has accumulated a vast number of Terrill Newnan and Latin awards, while the apparent ease with which she stays on the honor roll has made us all envious. This year she is Business Editor of PERICON and Circulation Manager of TRI-STAR. Her gift for organization was made evident by her skill in handling the tenth grade funds, and the complications of the tickets and finances of numerous dramatic productions have miraculously smoothed themselves out under her capable management. In addition to all her other achievements, Ginny has been active on the hockey squad for some time. Here's best of luck, Bess, whatever you do.

James Wellington Dyll

Jim first came to us on an Edsel Ford Scholarship and has since proved himself well worthy of the award, distinguishing himself many times in the academic field. He has been almost a permanent fixture on the Honor Roll and received a Terrill Newnan award in his Junior year. Jim's greatest interest is in music. His talent in this field has graced the Varieties several times. He has rendered great service this year as Managing Editor of the TRIANGLE. Jim will be a great loss to the school when he leaves for the University of Michigan, where he plans to study medicine.

Gloria Ann Roberts

Effervescent and vivacious are the two words which seem to fit Gloria perfectly, and wherever there is class merriment she is sure to be in the thick of it. Gloria has achieved fame with her pictures; she is this year's PERICON Photography Editor for Country Day, as well as official TRI-STAR picture-taker. Last year found her keeping the books as our class treasurer, and in past years she could have been seen indulging in a little modern dance. We're sure to see Gloria's smiling face looking out at us from the paper some day as owner or rider of the winning horse, and we'll all be proud to say "we knew her when."

Post Fordon

Since Post joined us in the eighth grade, he has been known as the wittiest and most colorful boy in the class. His effervescence never ceases; as a result, he has been prominent in Varieties since his Freshman year and has taken active part in many other extra-curricular activities, such as the Service Club, Library Committee, and Glee Club. Athletically, Post is a stalwart of the tennis team, lettering in his Junior year. His popularity is not to be forgotten either. His classmates elected him Senior Vice-President, knowing that they can always depend upon him to put his finest efforts into anything worthwhile.

Monica Maria Sterba

Monica, our class Vice-President and Secretary combination, is the smallest and one of the blondest of our number. Her literary talents are always in demand: she is on the board of PEN POINTE and is active on the staff of TRI-STAR, not only writing but distributing and collecting as well, ably filling the position of news convenor. Monica, too, has been a modern dancer and, at one time, a member of the Glee Club; and on top of everything her scholastic record is enviably high. She will never find it difficult to make friends because she is that rare combination—a good listener and an interesting conversationalist.

Peter Hack Giblin

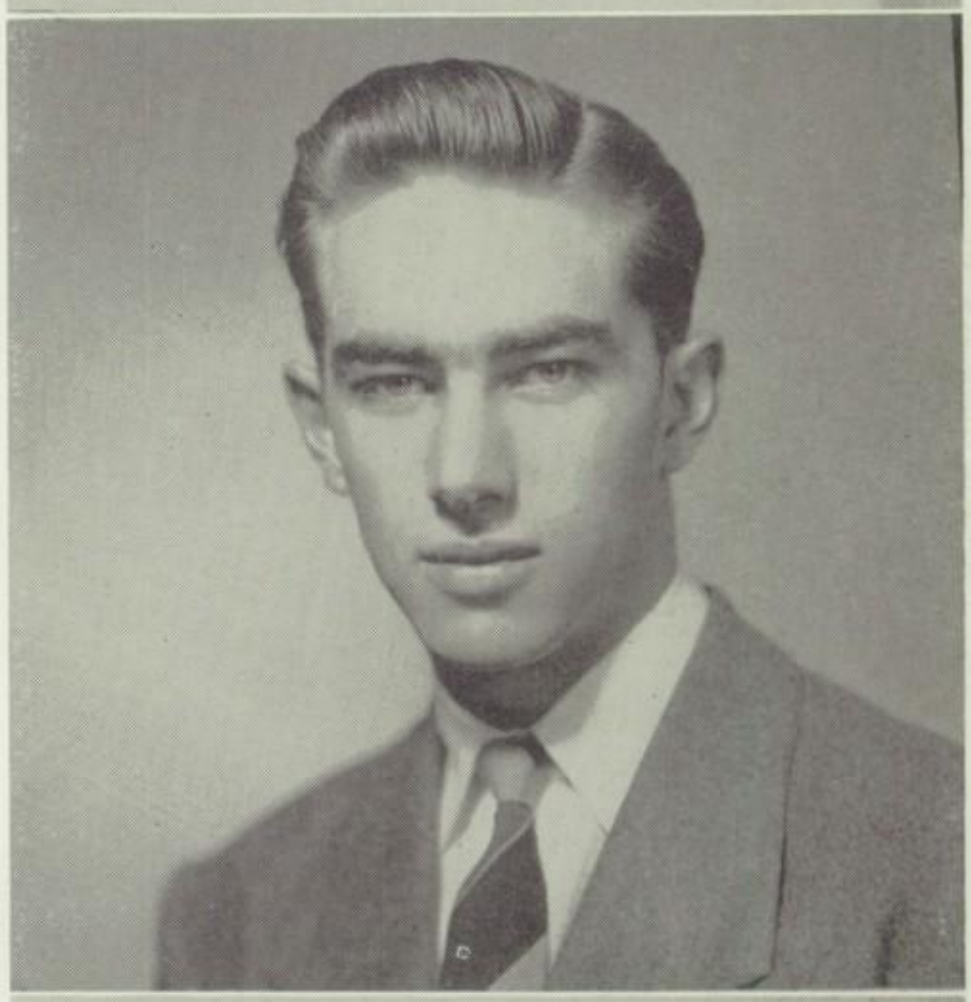
Pete's cherubic face has been in our midst since 1945, and he has been active in school affairs all the time. In the literary world, he was Alumni Editor of the TRIANGLE last year and has been a constant contributor to the D.U.S. WRITER. Gifted dramatically, Pete has been in Varieties for two years and was a principal in the school play last year. He has participated in almost all varsity sports since the tenth grade, lettering twice in baseball. His scholastic achievements are in every way comparable to his extra-curricular standards, making him one of the outstanding boys-on-campus.

Jean Elizabeth Stever

In her Senior year Jean was chosen to keep our class finances in order and has done a good job as Treasurer. In the eleventh grade she was a Student Council representative and the star goalie of the hockey team. Jean is one of two girls in the class who are members of the Athletic Honor Society, which in itself speaks for her hockey and basketball prowess. This year she is a convenor on the TRI-STAR staff and is also the proud possessor of both Latin and Terrill Newnan awards. Too, Jean yearly lends her talents to Dramatic Club and Varieties, and, as she has been at Country Day since kindergarten, there will be a large gap in school life when she leaves.

William Robertson Hamilton III

Since Bill came to us in the sixth grade, his broad smile and diverse abilities have made him a leader of our class. He has been a member of the Student Council and Athletic Council and is active in dramatics. He was Editor-in-Chief of the TRIANGLE and Advertising Manager of the PERICON. In the field of athletics, Bill has been quarterback of the football team, and has performed the unusual feat of earning four Varsity letters in baseball. When Bill leaves, it will be a great loss, for his great warmth has been an integral part of the class of '49.



Elizabeth Lynn Waldbott

The class has been laughing with Betsy for the three years that she has been with us, but there is nothing funny about the large number of scholastic honors, including the coveted Finnie Books, Terrill Newnan, Latin, and French awards, which she has won with ease. She is constantly amazing us, for Betsy is as versatile as she is intelligent. Last year she was President of the Junior class and May Queen Attendant; this year TRI-STAR has her capable leadership. Betsy's talents also include sculpture and modeling and she has always taken part in Varieties and Dramatic Club plays. Her many outside interests, coupled with her attractive personality, make Betsy one of the Senior class' most outstanding girls.

Forman Spenser Johnston, Jr.

Form has been at D.U.S. longer than most of us, joining the class in the sixth grade. He has participated in school life by undertaking responsibilities which have benefited all of us. He served us well as Photography Editor of PERICON, and as an anchor man on the football team this fall. He has distinguished himself by winning two "firsts" in recent hobby shows. One of Forman's main interests is Jass, in which field he is regarded as an authority. We know he will leave as favorable an impression upon the students of his prospective college as he has left upon us.

Susan Leora Wheelock

This year Sue was Athletic Association President, as well as a member of both the hockey team and modern dance class. For several years she participated in Varieties and was a member of the 1949 board. She shines in both painting and sculpture, from which it naturally followed that she was Art Editor for PEN POINTE in her Junior year and had the same job for PERICON this year. In ninth and eleventh grades she was May Queen Attendant and this year took up the new job of crowning the queen. It has taken Sue a long time to decide where to go to college, but the school of her final choice will be lucky to have her as Susan will take with her her charm and good humor, qualities which we will all miss.

Warren Merritt Jones

Merritt's mordant wit and great capacity for friendship have made him one of the most popular boys on the campus, since he joined us in the ninth grade. His prowess on the field is renowned, and he is one of the outstanding letter-winners in the class, as he has won three Varsity awards in baseball and two in basketball. He was the basketball team's top scorer in his Junior year, and was elected captain in his Senior year. Merritt has graced the Glee Club and Varieties with his talent for several years. Merritt will be greatly missed by his classmates, but we know he will be as great a fellow at Brown as he was at D.U.S.

Charles Irwin Mayer

Charlie entered the portals of D.U.S. in 1944 and since then he has made his presence felt in many school activities. In his Senior year he was elected Business Manager of the PERICON, a position which he has filled with great capability. Each year he has extend his talents into the student production, Varieties. Charlie has earned two letters in baseball and has been a member of the reserve basketball team for several years. When Charlie leaves, he will leave a noticeable gap, as is always the case when such a conscientious person departs.

Jean Taylor Wright

Jean was a Student Council member in the tenth grade and now is at the head of that organization as its capable and dependable Co-President. She has been at Country Day since kindergarten, and her proficiency in the art room has developed more and more each year. For her work in dramatics last year she was elected to the Proscenium Society and this year is its President. She also served on the PEN POINTE board as Publicity Editor; and ever since the ninth grade has been on either the hockey or basketball squad, or both. With her many and varied abilities she is sure to fit well into life anywhere.

Richard Ronald Kuhn

As President of the Student Council in the Senior year, Dick has attained the highest student office in the school. Another high honor came to Dick last year when he was elected to the Cum Laude Society. He has also won Terrill Newnan awards since the ninth grade. In his capacity as Editor of the D.U.S. WRITER, Dick published an excellent issue. Furthermore, Dick has also made a mark for himself in athletic endeavors. He has won three Varsity letters in baseball, two in basketball, and one in football. We are all sure that Dick will continue his excellent record at Dartmouth.

The Athletic Council governs the awarding of letters throughout the school in major sports of football, basketball, baseball, tennis, and track. It also awards letters to boys devoting three seasons to equipment management for major sports and to cheer-leaders. The Council controls the color combinations to be worn on letter-sweaters and the size and shapes of letters to be awarded. In the fall of each year, the Council is elected by the school from those boys who have previously won letters. The initial council has six members and the coaches of the letter-deserving sports are automatically included. All captains chosen during the year are also accepted into the Council. The Athletic Council weighs carefully all the qualities of a boy whose name has been submitted for lettering by the coach of a sport. Only those who are fully deserving are awarded letters by the Council. This past year the officers were: Bill Hamilton, President; Warren Babcock, Vice-President; Warren Sisman, Secretary.

Now in its seventeenth year of operation, the "U" Club was organized to increase school spirit and give a special distinction to those winning a letter in a major sport. It is a non-elective group which all Varsity letter men are invited to join. Three years ago the club instituted the intra-mural Red and Blue competition. This year's officers include: Warren Babcock, President; Bill Hamilton, Vice-President; Warren Sisman, Secretary-Treasurer; and John Wood, Historian.

As last year seemed to slip by very quickly, the Blue and Gold teams started the hockey games as early as possible this year so as to make the race for the championship cup much more exciting. With tournaments newly introduced, the Blue team, as well as all Country Day, has become more cooperative. United as a group, the resulting spirit was grand. Led by Nena Cunningham and Betty Lou Givens as Captain and Manager respectively, the Blue team has added to the all-around spirit of the school consequently, everyone has had some real fun and witnessed the good old rivalry.

Gold Team

After an exciting hockey season the Gold Team had an equally thrilling basketball season. With the wonderful competition of the Blue Team under their able leader, Nena Cunningham, and the skillful coaching of Miss Savery and Miss Leydon, we have had all in all an excellent year. Barbara Barnum, the captain of the Gold Team, has found the never-ending help of her manager, Mary McKean, and the wonderful co-operation of her team a marvelous help during the year. With the many new sports added for the first time to Country Day we have had a most successful year.

Together with Miss Savery and Miss Leydon the Council picked the members of the Varsity teams. This year the Council devised a new point system which will help it to determine the awards at the Spring banquets in the years to come.

Making more sports available to everyone, the Council started ping pong, bowling, and badminton tournaments. This May, after a delicious meal, eighth grade entertainment, and the presentation of the long-awaited awards, everyone agreed that the banquet was a marvelous success.

This year the Athletic Honor Society was founded to honor the girls who have done exceedingly well in athletics; sportsmanship, ability, and leadership are considered. Two years of first team hockey or basketball, or a combination of the two, is what these girls represent, and they are to be commended for their outstanding endeavor in the field of sports. As each year goes by new girls will be admitted into the society; with such an excellent beginning, the prestige of the society will become a Country Day heritage.

As we look back over the past year it is with a certain feeling of satisfaction that we realize that in spite of the work involved we have gained, intentionally or unintentionally, much valuable experience in the art of organization and coordination. We have many people to thank for the success of this book. We wish to thank Mr. Grimes, Miss McEnery, and Mrs. Welcenbach for their invaluable assistance, without which we would have been lost. We also wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. Sladen for their enthusiastic help. Last but not least, we wish to thank our staff for the fine job they have done.

Tri-Star

Standing—M. Barnard, R. Garber, S. Woodruff, C. Brossy, J. Stever, N. Cunningham, M. Langs, M. Sterba. Seated—B. L. Givens, V. Robb, B. Waldbott (editor), G. Roberts.

Miss Ferguson

In TRI-STAR'S tenth year of printed publication we have sought to bring up its standards and improve its journalistic quality. With the able assistance of Miss Ferguson, TRI-STAR's new faculty advisor, several changes have been brought about. A newly created convening staff is responsible for editing the material in each of the various departments.

From outside journalism courses and conferences a considerable knowledge of journalism was obtained and brought back to TRI-STAR members. The reporters tried to give special regard to this form in their writings. Special consideration has been given to balance and unity in make-up and to proper headline content. Also banner headlines have been used for the first time.

TRI-STAR has been of definite value to the student body by bringing to light dissenting opinions on current issues through student poles.

This year TRI-STAR also became a member of the International Quill and Scroll Society.

Triangle

Standing—G. Zinn, T. Browning, W. Sisman, B. Kratzet, M. Jones, B. Heath, C. Barnet, B. Moore, D. Pyle, C. Mayer, J. Berke.
Seated—B. Hamilton, J. Dyll, B. Hester, D. Sutherland, T. Hammond.

Mr. Studer

This year, for the first time since the creation of the TRIANGLE, the leadership of the school paper is being handled in an entirely new fashion. In accordance with the rules devised by the Student Council and members of a Faculty committee, the TRIANGLE is published by the Senior Class for the first half of the school year, then is turned over to the eleventh grade supervision for the latter half. Continuing from this year, the plan will not only relieve the Senior Class of one of its many burdens, but will give valuable experience to the Junior Class for the following year and will encourage students to take interest in school activities at an earlier age.

From September to December, the TRIANGLE was in the capable hands of Bill Hamilton and Jim Dyll; following their term, Bill Hester became editor on behalf of the Junior Class.

Pen Pointe Board

B. L. Givens, N. Cunningham, C. Korneffel, S. Woodruff, Editor, N. McMenimen, M. Bahr, J. V. Garrett.

Mrs. Welcenbach

This year, because of the wonderful co-operation from the board and staff and the student body, our literary magazine, PEN POINTE, was a great success. However, if it hadn't been for the enthusiastic support from Mrs. Welcenbach, all this wouldn't have been possible. At the beginning of the year a contest was held for short stories, poems, and essays; and a new contest was initiated in the art classes for the cover of PEN POINTE. The new illustrated magazine met with hearty enthusiasm from the student body. This year we became a member of the National Scholastic Press Association with top rating, and everyone agrees that we have had an outstanding year.

D.U.S. Writer

Clockwise—J. Berke, H. Earle, T. Browning, B. Moore, D. Kuhn, D. Pyle, J. Fildew, J. Lutomski, P. Bogle.

Mr. Conley

During the four years of the "Writer's" existence it has risen from the level of an experiment to a par with the other literary works of the school.

Due to the arduous and excellent work of the staff, capably headed by Editor Dick Kuhn and Advisor Mr. Conley, the caliber of the "Writer" has been constantly improving.

Contests sponsored by the "Writer" staff have resulted in such an abundance of essays, plays, short stories and poems that only the best can be published. Any student who has one of his works published in the "Writer" truly has something of which to be proud.

Library Committee

The student library committees in each of the schools are charged with the responsibility of supervising and caring for the libraries. They have been capably assisted and directed by Miss McEnery at the Country Day School and Mr. Diggles at the Detroit University School. Through the aid and interest of the Library Committee of the Board of Trustees, it has been possible to improve both the physical appearance and the materials in these libraries this year.

Proscenium Society

Although the Proscenium Society has only been organized for two years, it is considered a goal well worth reaching by those taking part in dramatic activities. Progress of the organization has been in the form of election of its first officers, Jean Wright as President, and Warren Babcock as Secretary.

Standing—W. Babcock, J. Bingham, P. Giblin, D. Kuhn, B. Hamilton. Seated—S. Foy, M. Bahr, R. Garber Absent—J. Wright.

May Day

One of Country Day's loveliest traditions is May Day, the annual dance festival on the school's front lawns. The crowning of the May Queen, the procession of the court, and many costumed acts make the spectacle colorful and bright. This year a Maid of Honor from the Senior Class increased the court's number by one. On a sunny day gay music became a background for the various scenes from "PULLMAN PAGEANT" which unfolded before an enthusiastic audience, and the recessional to the chords of "Pomp and Circumstance" ended another delightful pageant of imagery.

Mrs. Nadal

The Glee Club this year has progressed well under the excellent direction of Mrs. Nadel, being particularly successful in the songs and performance put on this winter just before Christmas vacation. It is now more like a club because it has a President, Jim Kennedy; two Secretaries, Dorothy Wood and John Wood; and two Librarians, Joan Dryden and Myron May.

The Club was divided into two classes this year: acting and stage craft. The acting class worked toward development of acting, diction, and direction through experimentation in plays, while the class in stage craft designed and made sets for many of the Drama Club and class plays besides working on lighting and stage equipment. Together the two classes have progressed toward the conclusion of a successful and full year.

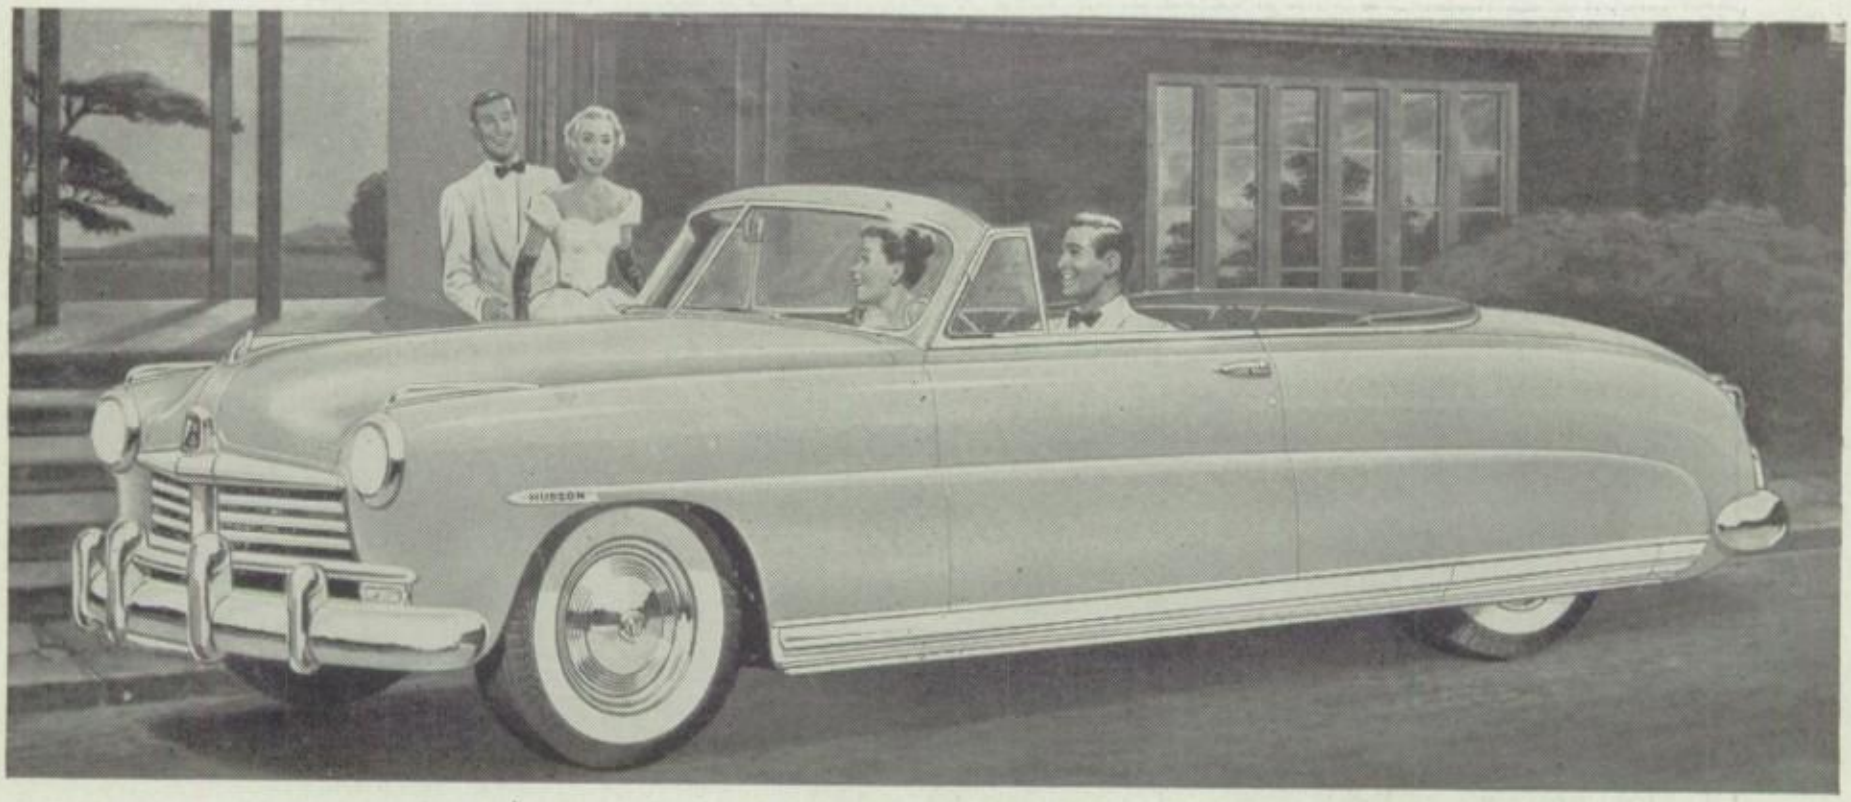
Extend Best Wishes

to the

CLASS OF '49



Here's where your heart skips a beat!

HERE, beyond all doubt, is the most elegant convertible that American motor-car artistry has ever conceived for assembly line production . . . it's the New Hudson!

This glorious New Hudson convertible has unexcelled riding qualities and a new measure of safety, both largely resulting from the fact that it has the lowest center of gravity in any American stock car—yet it has full road clearance!

Even with this lower center of gravity and the car's new, low silhouette, there's amazing head room with the top up, because Hudson floors are recessed down within a base frame. Hudson is the only car you step down into!

The long, sweeping lines of this magnificent New Hudson convertible, its gorgeous interior appointments, chaste chrome fitting, and rich leather or special combination of leather and fabric upholstery, mark it as a car you can own and drive with deep and enduring pride.

This outstanding Hudson convertible was conceived and built to thrill you right down to your toes! Come in and see it . . . drive it at your earliest convenience.

HOW TO SEE WHERE YOU CAN'T LOOK

The Diamond "Utiliscope" (wired television) extends the power of the human eye so you can "see" where you can't "look." It enables you to see around corners, through walls, into fire, through water, at any reasonable distance. It permits you to observe dangerous operations as if you had a front row seat but with complete safety. The operation being performed (or condition being observed) is scanned by the "Utiliscope" camera so that a continuous picture is produced on the "Utiliscope" screen. Suggested uses include: Watching dangerous or explosive processes. Observing conditions in steel furnaces, boilers, pulverizers, etc. Reproducing images of maps, charts, etc. (as recorded) at remote places. Destructive testing without endangering the operator. Identifying people, documents or signatures at distant points. Transmitting demonstrations, style shows, surgical operations, etc., so they can be watched by remote and different groups.
